

ABSTRACT

A first nitrogen-containing insulating film is formed under a low dielectric constant film, in which a via hole is formed, with a first nitrogen-non-containing insulating film interposed between the first nitrogen-containing insulating film and the low dielectric constant film. A second nitrogen-containing insulating film is formed over the low dielectric constant film with a second nitrogen-non-containing insulating film interposed therebetween.